

Education & Theatre

Vol 24 (2023)

Contents

Νάσια (Αθανασία) ΧΟΛΕΒΑ

doi: 10.12681/edth.36242

To cite this article:

ΧΟΛΕΒΑ Ν. (Αθανασία). (2023). Contents. Education & Theatre, 24, 4-5. <https://doi.org/10.12681/edth.36242>

Contents

Education & Theatre Journal
Issue 24, 2023

6 A note from the editing committee

Research Articles

8 Gender representations in dramatic texts for young audiences in the period 2015–2021
Maria Dimaki-Zora and Asimina Charalampous

20 Fostering inmates' self-identity and communication via Drama in Education and puppetry: An action research study at the Volos Youth Detention Centre
Magda Vitsou and Kostas Magos

30 Documentary theatre as a means of raising awareness of racist phenomena among teachers
Panos Vassilopoulos

42 Ancient drama as a therapeutic tool: The theatrical performances by inpatients at the Dromokaiteion Hospital in the 1960s – The performance of Aeschylus' Eumenides in 1965
Triantafyllos Bostantzis

52 Theatricality and synthetic image as means of staging memories
Sanja Maljković

Viewpoint

62 Do you remember your first drama lesson? Critical Incident methodologies for future practice
Robin Pascoe

 Insert: The I-TAP-PD Project
- Innovative programmes -

68 The I-TAP-PD project and the Greek participation:
Contribution to local practices of equal collaboration between teachers and artists and to international research
Betty Giannouli, Nassia Choleva and Iro Potamoussi

74 The quality and equality of personal and professional development in teacher-artist partnerships
Vera McGrath

- Research article -

82 Personal and professional development through sustainable partnerships in education:
Serbian experiences from the I-TAP-PD Erasmus+ project
Nikola Koruga, Dunja Đokić and Sanja Krsmanović Tasić

- Interview -

92 The I-TAP-PD project experience:
Building relationships through arts in education
Manja Eland in conversation with Betty Giannouli
and Nassia Choleva

 Dissertation synopsis

100 The contribution of drama to the in-service training of teachers on human rights education
Nassia Choleva

