NOTES FROM A LENINGRAD MANUSCRIPT: EUGENIOS VOULGARIS' AUTOGRAPH LIST OF HIS OWN WORKS*

Within the broad field of Balkan, particularly Greek, Enlightenment studies, one of the greatest problems concerns the limited accessibility and use of Soviet manuscript and published material. Just as Soviet and pre-revolutionary Russian scholars have called attention to the substantial archival resources for earlier periods of Greek history,<sup>1</sup> so also rich Soviet collections bearing on more recent Greco-Russian ties await scholarly investigation.<sup>2</sup>

Indicative of the contribution that Soviet repositories offer

* The International Research and Exchanges Board (IREX), through their sponsorship and support in the Soviet Union, made possible the year of research upon which this article draws. Special thanks also go to B. A. Gradova and E. E. Granstrom for their assistance at the Leningrad Public Library. Permission to photograph the Voulgaris manuscript was kindly given by the Library's Division of Manuscripts.

Fonkich, «Grecheskaia kodikologija (na materiale rukopisei X - XVII vv. sobranii Moskvy i Leningrada)», part of which is published in the dissertation abstract (Moscow, Izdatel'stvo Moskovskogo Universiteta, 1969), pp. 6-9. For coverage of Leningrad, see the systematic catalogs of E. E. to Greek scholarship is the heretofore unknown manuscript in the Leningrad Public Library,<sup>1</sup> «Conspectus Operum, Editorum atque Ineditorum»,<sup>2</sup> Eugenios Voulgaris' autograph list of his own published and unpublished works. Though accounts of Voulgaris' lengthy career have often alluded to his last thirty-five years (1771-1806) in the Russian Empire —some dismissing the period quite summarily as being the time when Voulgaris «turned conservative»— relatively little work has sought to explore the precise nature of Voulgaris' substantial activity in Catherinean and post-Catherinean Russia.<sup>3</sup> While the manuscript here in question does not in isolation reveal the rich complexity of Voulgaris' involvements within the Russian Empire, it nevertheless is of particular interest for the significant new insights it offers into retrospective Greek bibliography.

The origin of the Voulgaris autograph «Conspectus» is not particularly difficult to determine. Residing during the last five

1973; also, the very noteworthy article by B. L. Fonklich on patriarchal documents of the XVI-XIX centuries, «Grecheskie gramoty sovetskikh khranilishch», in Problemy Paleografii i Kodikologii v SSSR Moscow (Akademija Nauk), 1975, pp. 242-260. It is in this article where Fonklich notes, among many others, the relatively unknown, long letters of Cyril Loucaris «concerning the political situation in the Near East» (p. 247). Among the other sources found throughout the USSR for study of Greco-Russian ties, the very large archival collection, «Russian Relations with Greece», now exists in two separate locations in Moscow. Materials up to 1721 are housed in fond № 52, Tsentral'nyi Gosudarstvennyi Arkhiv Drevnikh Aktov (TsGADA ... Central State Archive of Ancient Acts). Materials dating after 1721 have been transferred, along with other collections such as «The Constantinople Mission» and «Russian Relations with the Ionian Islands», to the Arkhiv Vneshni Politiki Rossii (AVPR... Archive of Russian Foreign Policy).

1. Gosudarstvennaia Publichnaia Biblioteka im. Saltykova - Shchedrina, hereafter referred to as GPB.

2. The Voulgaris autograph list under this Latin title is located in GPB, fond 588 (Pogodinskie avtografy), delo 329, 8 leaves. Two working drafts in Greek, also in Voulgaris' hand, are found in GPB, Sobranie Pogodina 2009, Vol. II, leaves 247-249.

3. For an account of Voulgaris' career in Russia based upon Soviet archival resources, see this writer's unpublished doctoral dissertation, «Eugenios Voulgaris in Russia, 1771-1806: A Chapter in Greco-Slavic Ties of the Eighteenth Century», University of Minnesota, 1975.

years of his life in the Aleksandr Nevskii Monastery in St. Petersburg, Voulgaris was in frequent contact there with the learned scholar and monk, Evgenii Bolkhovitinov (1767-1837), later to become the Metropolitan of Kiev.<sup>1</sup> Bolkhovitinov was already at the time compiling materials for his two-volume biographical dictionary of critical figures in Russian intellectual and church history.<sup>2</sup> In this context Bolkhovitinov undoubtedly asked Archbishop Eugenios to assist him in the preparation of Voulgaris' own biographical article by drafting a list of his published and unpublished works. That Bolkhovitinov or his immediate assistant must have been the source of the request may be verified through two independent sources. On the one hand, Bolkhovitinov's published dictionary, which includes a biographical article on Voulgaris, contains the only Voulgaris bibliography taken directly from the «Conspectus».<sup>3</sup> As a result, this Bolkhovitinov bibliography, while it understandably is not complete, remains one of the best for coverage both of Voulgaris' published and unpublished works. Further bearing out Bolkhovitinov's tie with the «Conspectus» is the fact that two of the manuscript copies in Voulgaris' own hand are bound in GPB within the manuscript volumes entitled, «Materials for Evgenii's (Bolkhovitinov's) Dictionary».<sup>4</sup>

1. For the date of Voulgaris' move to Aleksandr Nevskii Monastery, see the account of two contemporaries, Ivan I. Martynov, «Izvestie o Arkhiepiskeope Evgenii Bulgare», Litsei, Ch. III, kn. 1, p. 43; and Evgenii [Bolkhovitinov], Slovar' Istoricheskii o byoshikh v Rossii pisateliakh dukhovnago china, grekorossiskiia tserkvi, Chast' I, St. Petersburg, 1818, p. 156. For Bolkhovitinov's own account of his association with Voulgaris, see «Vyderzhki iz druzheskikh pisem Evgeniiia», Russkii Arkhiv(1870), 785-786.

2. For reference to the first dictionary, on the writers of spiritual rank, see Evgenii [Bolkhovitinov], op. cit.; for secular writers, see the same author's Slovar' russikh svetskikh pisatelei sootechestvennikov i chuzhestrantsev, pisavshikh v Rossii, 1st ed. (only A-Г), Moscow, 1838; republished in completed edition in Moscow, 1845.

3. See Evgenii [Bolkhovitinov], Slovar'... dukhovnago china (St. Petersburg, 1818), pp. 150-172 (for bibliography, pp. 156-170).

4. GPB, Sobranie Pogodina 2009, consists of two volumes under this title. The Voulgaris materials are in Vol. II, leaves 244-257. Interestingly, Vol. I, leaves 369-371, contains a brief account «concerning the Zosimades brothers», with reference to their publishing activity and their deposit in Moscow of 150,000

All other items in the bound manuscript volumes, including a copy of Voulgaris' will, as well as substantial material on numerous other figures represented in the Slovar' (Dictionary), have the common thread of their connection with the Bolkhovitinov publications.

The dating of Voulgaris' «Conspectus» can be fairly well approximated. In as much as Voulgaris identifies the publication of volumes printed in 1801,<sup>1</sup> but fails to credit the subsequent publication in 1804 of several other manuscripts,<sup>2</sup> we can assume that Voulgaris wrote the «Conspectus» sometime within that two to three year period, 1801-1804.

With respect to the handwriting and condition of the manuscripts, it is clear that each of the three lists—two drafts in Greek and the one below in Latin—is in the hand of Voulgaris.<sup>3</sup> Unfortunately, the only list that can be reproduced in entirety without marginal loss is the Latin one, facsimile of which is attached. Though the Latin «Conspectus» is the most inclusive of the three in terms of items—it has one more entry than the two Greek lists—there are occasions when Voulgaris gives information in the Greek lists otherwise lacking in the corresponding Latin list. In such cases I have provided supplementary notes below. In general, readers will quickly note that, for a man of 85 to 88 years of age (b. 1716), Eugenios Voulgaris' hand remained remarkably strong—a point which lends added credibility to the accounts of those contemporaries who said that Voulgaris conrables, the interest on which was being sent to Greece for use by the «schools of Ioannina and other appropriate and useful matters» (leaf 369).

1. See, for example, no 59 in the facsimile below.

2. See, for example, no 47 and no 48, published together in 1804; also no 34, published in St. Petersburg, 1804.

3. For a comparison of the hand of Voulgaris at a similar stage in his life, readers may note the handwritten additions by Voulgaris to his «Κύκλος ποιητικῶν ὀθυρματίων», preserved in the Manuscripts Division of the National Library of Greece (EBE), no 1160, leaves 47-72b. The additions, leaves 72-72b, including Voulgaris' epigram on Nikiforos Theotokes' death, are from approximately the same period as the GPB lists, and clearly postdate the earlier entries of the Κύκλος.

tinued a full round of scholarly activity until the very last years of his long life.<sup>1</sup>

While the «Conspectus» contributes significantly to eighteenth- and nineteenth- century bibliography and to our bibliographical understanding of Voulgaris' prodigious output, one note of qualification is necessary. The list is clearly not complete. Conspicuously missing from Voulgaris' «Conspectus» are many of this shorter works, including several Voltaire translations, his translation of Platon Levshin's speech on the coronation of Alexander I,<sup>2</sup> and his translation of three sermons by Samuil Mislavskii, Archbishop of Rostov and Iaroslavl' (1731-1796).<sup>3</sup> While it is possible that deliberate memory loss accounts for the failure to mention some of the short Voltaire translations, it is more likely that Voulgaris limited the «Conspectus» to his more lengthy original and translated works.

1. See, for example, Martynov, op. cit., p. 50.

2. Though Metropolitan Platon's work is well known to Greek bibliography (see Δ. Σ. Γκίνη καὶ Β. Γ. Μέξα, 'Ελληνικὴ Βιβλιοθραφία, 1800-1863, Τόμος Ι, σ. 17 [nº 96]), the only bibliography crediting Voulgaris with its translation from the Latin is V. S. Sopikov, Opyt rossiiskoi bibliografii, ili polnyi slovar' sochinenii i perevodov, na slavenskom i rossiiskom iazykakh, ot nachala zavedenia tipografii do 1813 goda, 4 parts (St. Petersburg, 1813-1816), item nº 10084.

3. The Mislavskii sermons are also cited by Sopikov, op. cit., nº 10526, nº 10540 and nº 10541, with the Greek translation credited to Eugenios Voulgaris. As with many other synodal and related Greek publications printed in Russia, these have gone unrecorded in standard Greek bibliographies. This writer has located de visu only items nº 10540 and nº 10541. Item nº 10540 (GPB call no. 13.3.2.806) is a sermon of 17 pages, with page 1 the title page, page 2 blank, page 3 as the first page of text, and page 16 the last page of text with page 17 blank. The title page of nº 10540 reads as follows :

In the item-by-item notes which follow, each entry is identified in terms of its presence in one of the existing bibliographies to Greek publications of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. Where the Voulgaris list offers a corrective or addition to existing bibliographies, indication of this is noted. For those works which remain unpublished, manuscript repository of the original is cited, if known. Abbreviations used below are identified at the end of the notes.

- 3..... Γκίνης - Μέξας, op. cit., n° 376, p. 62.
- 4..... Note: To this writer's knowledge, there exists neither a published edition of this translation of Christian Wolfe's (1679 - 1754) work, taken from the Cours de mathématique, nor a location for the Voulgaris autograph manuscript.
- 5-6 .... Γκίνης - Μέξας, op. cit., n° 319, pp. 52-53.
Note: Item n° 6 in the «Conspectus», which is identified by Voulgaris in his Greek draft as Θεωρημάτων Ἀρχιμηδείων (see GPB, Sobranie Pogodina 2009, Vol. II, leaf 248, n° 6)' is included within the above citation (see pp. 325-397, «Θεωρημάτα ἐκ τῶν Ἀρχιμηδους...»)«
- 7..... Note: Voulgaris' translation of Politique tirée des propres paroles de l'écriture Sainte, by Jacques B. Bossuet (1627-1704), has never been published. The autograph manuscript edition in Greek by Voulgaris now is located, in two volumes, in the Manuscript and Rare Book Room of the Gor'kii Library of Moscow State University (MGU, grech. 7/10, E. c. 3), though the dedication to the Grand Prince Konstantin Pavlovich appears to have been removed from the first volume (lettering remains in the margins on the pages which have been cut out). The title of the Voulgaris translation, also cited by Voulgaris in his Greek list of works, is Τὰ Πολιτικὰ ληφθέντα ἐξ αὐτῶν τῶν λογίων τῆς Θείας Γραφῆς. The Greek translation appears to be a direct word-for-word rendering of the first edition of the Bossuet work, published posthumously in Bruxelles, 1710. For location of the rare Voulgaris manuscript in Moscow, I am indebted to B. L. Fonkich. Voulgaris dated his manuscript for Konstantin Pavlovich on the latter's name day, May 21, 1790. Professor L. Vranousis has recently identified a very intriguing earlier copy of the same Bossuet translation. Located in the Library of the Diocese Roman near Jassy, this two-volume manuscript is dedicated to the voevoda Konstantin Michael Rakovitsa. Voul-garis has signed the dedicatory preface, which he dates «Ἐν Βουκουρεστίῳ Δεκεμβρίου α' αψέγ' [1763].» Aside from the dedication, however, this later manuscript is not in the hand of Voulgaris. For identification of this copy in Romania, I am indebted to Professor Vranousis.

8.....Note: Though there is neither an identifiable published edition nor manuscript copy of this particular translation, the ties between Voulgaris and Pierre Leclerc (1706-1773?), the Catholic Jansenist, are amply documented in other sources. See, for example, Voulgaris' 'Επιστολὴ πρὸς Πέτρον τὸν Καζάνιον: Περὶ τῶν μετὰ τὸ σχίσμα Ἀγίων τῆς Ορθοδόξου Ἀνατολικῆς Ἐκκλησίας καὶ τῶν γνομένων ἐν αὐτῷ θαυμάτων (Athens, 1844), and the letter of Leclerc to Voulgaris on Mount Athos (LBE, Manuscripts Room, item n° 1349). Though none of the items included below would constitute a basis for the Παπομάστιξ, there exists a loosely bound compilation of published and unpublished Leclerc items in that part of the Voulgaris library now resting within the Kazan University Library (NBL). Dated «Amsterdam, 1757-1761», the Leclerc compilation, now under NBL call no. XXXII/138 (Rare Book Room), includes the following brief items:

1. Lettre aux illustrissimus et reverendissimus patriarches.
2. Profession de foi de Pierre Le Clerc.
3. Precis d'un acte de denonciation solennelle faite à l'Eglise.
4. Supplément a la feuille des nouvelles Ecclesiastiques du 15 mai 1757.
5. Suite du supplément.
6. Acte d'adhesion ou lettre de Mr. Louis Sainson a Pierre le Clerc [in manuscript].
7. Acte d'adhesion audit acte de denonciation [in manuscript].
8. Lettre d'un ecclesiastiques.
9. Supplément a la feuille des NN. eccl. du 24 avril 1758.

9.....Note: Though there is neither an identifiable published edition nor an autograph copy of this manuscript, credit for this translation of one part of Locke's Essay on Human Understanding has properly been given to Voulgaris by A. Angelou in his critical article, «Πῶς ἡ νεο-ελληνικὴ σκέψη ἐγνώρισε τὸ 'Δοκίμιο' τοῦ John Locke», L'Hellenisme contemporain, vol. IX, no. 4, pp. 230-249. Angelou is one of the few to have used the Bolkhovitinov bibliography of Voulgaris' works, having done so through its German translation.

11.....Legrand, op. cit., n° 645, pp. 48-49.

12.....Legrand, op. cit., n° 668, p. 69.

Note: Voulgaris fails to mention any second edition of this work, though such an edition has been suggested by Γ. Γ. ΛΑΔΑ καὶ Α. Δ. ΧΑΤΖΗΔΗΜΟΥ, Ἐλληνικὴ Βιβλιογραφία: Συμβολὴ στὸ Δέκατο Ὁγδοον Αἰώνα (Ἀθῆνα, 1964), no 152.

- 13-16 .. Legrand, op. cit., no 683, pp. 80-83.
 17..... Legrand, op. cit., no 695, pp. 91-93.
 18..... This unpublished work also lacks any identifiable location of the autograph manuscript. Voulgaris cites the entry in his Greek draft (GPB, Sobranie Pogodina 2009, Vol. II, leaf 248) under the title, Στοιχεῖα ἀλγεβραϊκά, ἦτοι τῆς ἀναλύσεως, Ἐλληνιστὶ συγγραφέντα κατὰ συλλογὴν Διαφόρων Προβλημάτων ἐπιλυσμένων.
 19..... Γκίνης - Μέξας, Vol. I, no 370, p. 61.
 Note: Voulgaris identifies this work in the corresponding Greek entry under the title, Περὶ τοῦ Συστήματος τοῦ Παντὸς συντάγματος ἐκ διαφόρων συγγραφέων.
 20..... Γκίνης - Μέξας, no 374, pp. 61-62.
 21..... Γκίνης - Μέξας, no 335, p. 55.
 Note: Only the first part (Μέρος Α') of the Gravesande translation is located in Voulgaris' autograph manuscript edition in EBC, Manuscripts Room, no 1158, 141 leaves.
 22..... Published in Trieste in 1868 under the title, Πραγματεία Περὶ Μονομήσης. Voulgaris' manuscript of this work, dedicated to Semen Kirilovich Narishkin, eventually landed in Kiev in the library of Evgenii Bolkhovitinov. The Trieste, 1868, edition was taken from the Kiev manuscript. It is probable that that same manuscript now is the copy held by EBC, no 1160, for Voulgaris' hand appears to be present in a marginal correction entered on leaf 6. The date and place of origin of the EBC manuscript is «Ἐν Πετρουπόλει 1772. Αὔγουστου 12.» As Bolkhovitinov noted in his biography of Voulgaris, there was a Russian translation of this essay circulating in the early nineteenth century, a likely reference to the Russian manuscript now housed in the Manuscript Room of the State Public Library (Kiev), «Sobranie Sofiiskogo Sobora, 128/601s». Copy of the Sofiiskii Sobor edition is also located in the Manuscripts Room of the Lenin State Library (GBL) in fond 214, the papers of the Optina Pustyn' Monastery. Manuscript copies in Greek and Russian also exist in the Manuscripts Room of the Central Scientific Library of the Academy of Sciences (Kiev), «DA/P414». A short excerpt of the Russian translation has recently been published in the Soviet Union by A. I. Rogova, compiler Muzikal'naya Estetika Rossii XI-XVIII vekov (Moscow, 1973), pp. 217-221.
 23..... Published as part three of Σπαρτίον Ἐντριτον . . . See Γκίνης - Μέξας, Vol. I, no 294, p. 48; and no 3040, pp. 442-443.
 24-25 .. Legrand, op. cit., no 691, pp. 86-89.

26.....Legrand, n<sup>o</sup> 723, pp. 118-120.

Legrand incorrectly identifies place of publication as Moscow, instead of St. Petersburg. Ironically, both Legrand and Voulgaris are probably wrong, due to a technicality, in citing 1770 as the date of publication. Voulgaris' translation of Catherine II's Nakaz was almost surely published in 1771 (see «Eugenios Voulgaris in Russia», pp. 42-43). The autograph manuscript rests in the Manuscripts Room of the Library of the Academy of Sciences (BAN), Leningrad, USSR (n<sup>o</sup> 17.16.10).

27.....In the corresponding Greek entry, Voulgaris cites the title as Στοχασμοὶ τῆς καθ' ἡμᾶς καταστάσεως τοῦ Ὁθωμανικοῦ Κράτους. The first Greek edition was published in 1772 in St. Petersburg (For the dating, see Ariadna Camariano, Spiritul Revolutionar Francez și Voltaire în Limba Greacă și Română, Bucharest, 1946; and «Eugenios Voulgaris in Russia», pp. 68-69). For bibliographical citation of the first Greek edition, without date or place of publication, see Φ. Η. Χλιού, Προσθῆκες στὴν Ἐλληνικὴν Βιβλιογραφία (for complete reference see list of abbreviations), Athens, 1973, item n<sup>o</sup> 244, p. 310. In addition to the Greek and French editions cited by Voulgaris in this entry to his «Conspectus», there were Russian translated editions published in 1780 and 1788 under the title Razzuzhdenie na deistvitel'no kriticheskoe sostoianie Ottomanskoi Porty, translated from the French by Aleksandr Kruglikov. Subsequent Greek editions in 1851 and 1854 are cited by Γιάνης - Μέζης, op. cit., Vol. II, n<sup>o</sup> 5566 and n<sup>o</sup> 6338.

28.....Legrand, op. cit., n<sup>o</sup> 774, pp. 162-163.

Note: The entry removes any suspicion raised by Legrand concerning Voulgaris' possible authorship, rather identifying it as a translation from the French. More puzzling is Voulgaris' claim, according to the «Conspectus», that the work remained then in manuscript, despite Legrand's cited publication date of 1772.

29.....Legrand, op. cit., n<sup>o</sup> 782, pp. 169.

30.....Legrand, op. cit., n<sup>o</sup> 826, pp. 204-205, cites only a Moscow, 1775 edition. ΛΑΔΑΣ - ΧΑΤΖΗΔΗΜΟΣ, Συμβολή, n<sup>o</sup> 127, pp. 135-136, cites the earlier 1774 edition, though it fails to note that this 1774 edition was published in St. Petersburg.

31.....Legrand, op. cit., n<sup>o</sup> 842, pp. 214-215.

32.....Legrand, op. cit., n<sup>o</sup> 827, pp. 205-206.

33.....Note: Though previously unrecorded in Greek published edition, this guiding document for the church reforms of Peter the Great, written by Feofan Prokopovich (1681-1736), was actually published in Voulgaris' Greek edition in Petrograd, 1916.

The title of the Greek edition, published as a supplement to the massive work of P. V. Verkhovskoi, Uchrezhdenie Dukhovnoi Kollegii, 2 Vols., was Πνευματικὸς Κανονισμός. For Voulgaris' autograph manuscript, see EBE, Manuscripts Room, № 1220. A copy of the Voulgaris autograph manuscript is also located in the Soviet Union in the Central State Historical Archive (TsGIA) in Leningrad, fond 834, opis' 2, delo 2022. Though the reason behind publication of the Greek translation in 1916 is not clear, it is possible that its issue was related to discussions then under way in Russian church circles regarding the lines of future church jurisdiction in the event of Russian conquest of Constantinople in World War I.

- 34.....Γχίνης - Μέξας, op. cit., № 248, p. 41. Γχίνης - Μέξας, Vol. II, № 4305 (p. 148) and № 4335 (p. 152), indicates at least one other Greek edition printed in Athens, 1846. A Russian edition under the title Razrushdenie protiv uzhasov smerti was published in Moscow 1806, with translation from the Greek by Semen Phaltonov.
- 35.....Note: Though no published edition exists, the autograph manuscript is currently located in EBE, Manuscripts Room, № 1160, leaves 47-72b, under the title «Κύκλος ποιητικῶν ἀθυρματίων».
- 36.....Γχίνης - Μέξας, op. cit., Vol. I, № 336, p. 55. For a later edition printed in Odessa, 1857, see Γχίνης - Μέξας, Vol. III, № 7182, p. 45.
- 37.....Note: According to Legrand, op. cit., № 820, this work (Απόκρωσις δρθοδόξου τινὸς πρός τινα ἀδελφὸν δρθόδοξον περὶ τῆς τῶν κατολίκων δυναστείας καὶ περὶ τοῦ τίνες οἱ σχῖσται καὶ οἱ σχισματικοὶ καὶ οἱ ἐσχισμένοι καὶ περὶ τῆς βαρβαρικῶς λεγομένης οὐνίας καὶ τῶν οὐνιτῶν καὶ περὶ τοῦ πῶς δεῖ τοὺς δρθοδόξους ἀπαντᾶν τοῖς κατολίκοις) has traditionally been credited to Nikeforos Theotokes. The unusual note here is Voulgaris' identification of the work as his own. Subsequent editions were published in Bucharest, 1829; Corfu, 1851; and Athens, 1853 (see Γχίνης - Μέξας, Vol. I, № 1842; Vol. II, № 5364; and Vol. II, № 5903). Some of the later editions included a reprint of Voulgaris' famous letter to the Serbs, «Κατὰ Δατίνων», a work which, perhaps because of its brevity, Voulgaris omitted from the «Conspicetus».
- 38.....For verification, see Svodnyi Katalog russkoi knigi grazhdanskoy pechati XVIII veka, 1725-1800, Vol. I (Moscow, 1963), p.327, № 2108. Translated from Voulgaris' Latin original into Russian by I. P. Sokolov, this work in parallel text Latin/Russian was published in St. Petersburg, 1792, along with a prefatory note by A. I. Musin-Pushkin, ober-prokurator of the Holy Synod.
- 39.....For description of the 1776 edition of this standard reader by Joachim Lange (1670-1744), see ΛΑΔΑΣ - ΧΑΤΖΗΔΗΜΟΣ, № 134,

- p. 143. Note, however, that neither ΛΑΔΑΣ - ΧΑΤΖΗΔΗΜΟΣ nor Γκίνης - Μέξας, Vol. I, no 24, p. 5 (the 1800 edition) credit Voulgaris with the translation into Greek.
- 40..... Apparently written in Latin in response to a question from the British writer John Lind, this work consists of 68 critical notes on the famous work by Thomas Smith, De Graecae Ecclesiae Hodierno Statu, London, 1678. Thomas Smith (1638-1710) was the well-known Anglican cleric who travelled in the Near East in the 1660's. Unfortunately, this writer knows of no record of the Voulgaris work in question in either published or manuscript form.
- 41..... As in the case of entry no 40 above, this is apparently a response written by Voulgaris to Archbishop Samuil (note reference to Samuil above in the prefatory material) who had apparently written to Voulgaris regarding the works of Feofan Prokopovich. There is no known location of the Voulgaris manuscript.
- 42..... As in entries no 40 and no 41 of the «Conspicetus», this is apparently a response in Latin to a question posed to Voulgaris, this time by a medical doctor from Leiden. The Voulgaris response remains unpublished, and the manuscript is without identifiable location.
- 43..... Neither published edition nor manuscript location is known. In his Greek draft of the list, Voulgaris entitles this work, 'Αντιπληρτισμὸς Γραμματικοῦ τε καὶ Φιλοσόφου.
- 44..... ΛΑΔΑΣ - ΧΑΤΖΗΔΗΜΟΣ, 'Ελληνικὴ Βιβλιογραφία τῶν ἐτῶν 1796 - 1799 ('Αθήνα, 1973), (Athens, 1973), no 56, p. 62. Among the other early editions of this work is that published in Vienna, 1807 (see Γκίνης - Μέξας, Vol. I, no 462, p. 77).
- 45..... Neither published edition nor manuscript location is known.
- 46..... Neither published edition nor manuscript location is known.
- 47-48 ..Γκίνης - Μέξας, Vol. I, no 242, p. 40. Γκίνης - Μέξας, however, gives no clue as to the original works or authors which Voulgarie translated. For a description of this work and identification of the original Latin components, see the helpful notations of Francis R. Walton in «Gennadeion Gleanings», 'Ο Ερανιστής, Vol. IV, no. 24 (Athens, 1966), pp. 219-221.
- 49..... Voulgaris' essay on the reunification of the Uniates into the Greek Orthodox Church has never, to my knowledge, been published in the original Greek. For a non-autograph Greek manuscript edition, see EBE, Manuscripts Room, no 1332. The essay has, however, been translated into Russian, and published under the following title: «Записка о луцкем способе воссоединения униатов с православнои церковью», Khristianskoe Chtenie, chast' 2, nos. 7-8, 1887, pp. 19-93.
- 50..... The translation into the Greek, entitled «Εἰσηγήσεως περὶ τῆς ὁρθῆς ἀγωγῆς τῶν γαληνοτάτων πριγκήπων Ἀλεξάνδρου καὶ Κωνσταντίου τῶν Παυλιδῶν», is located in autograph manuscript in EBE, Manuscripts Room, n° 1160, leaves 79-128, along with a letter addressed to Catherine by Voulgaris, leaves 75-77b. There exists no published edition of the imperial decree on the grandchildren's education in either Greek or Russian. For a published edition, see the work under the general editorship of M. Fursi Laisne - Mielansko, Instructions de S. M. l'Imperatrice Catherine II, a son altesse le Maréchal Prince de Saltykoff, chargé par elle de présider à l'éducation des Grands-Ducs Alexandre et Constantin; et d'une esquisse sur la vie du Prince Nicolas de Saltykoff, Paris, 1821.

- 51.....Γκίνης - Μέξας, op. cit., n° 253 (the Leipzig, 1804 edition); and n° 3613 (the Athens, 1842 edition), both identify Voulgaris' translation into Greek of this work by Soame Jenyns (1704-1787). In his Greek draft of the «Conspectus», Voulgaris refers to the work as Ἐξέτασις περὶ τῆς Ἐσωτερικῆς Σαφηνείας τοῦ Χριστιανισμοῦ. This work is also published as one of three essays translated by Voulgaris under the title, Σπάρτιον Ἐντριτόν (see Γκίνης - Μέξας, n° 294 and n° 3040, for the 1804 and 1838 editions). The 1838 Greek republication was printed in Moscow.

- 54.....ΛΑΔΑΣ - ΧΑΤΖΗΔΗΜΟΣ, Ἐλληνικὴ Βιβλιογραφία τῶν ἐτῶν 1796 - 1799, op. cit., n° 45, pp. 48-49.

Note: The autograph Voulgaris manuscript for volume one of this Zoernikav translation is located in GPB, Manuscripts Division, Grech. n° 879. Volume two, also in Voulgaris' hand, is in GPB, Manuscripts Division, Grech. n° 215. The autograph manuscript volumes correspond directly with the two published volumes.

- 55.....Ibid., n° 171, p. 244.

- 56.....Note: This is a reference to Voulgaris' translation into Greek of Georg Horn's (1620-1670) Brevis et perspicua introductio ad universalem historiam, a work which went through numerous editions in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. In his Greek list of works, Voulgaris entitles his translation, Εἰσαγωγὴ ἐπιτετμημένη καὶ σαφῆς εἰς τὴν καθόλον ιστορίαν. Unfortunately, there exists no record of its publication, nor any identifiable location for the manuscript.

- 57.....Γκίνης - Μέξας, n° 302 (Leipzig, 1804) and n° 1470 (Moscow, 1824).

Note: Of the four books of Tὸ Κενογάράιον τοῦ Θείου καὶ Ἱεροῦ Αὐγονοστίνον, the first three are located in autograph manuscript form in the State Historical Museum, Moscow (Gosudarstvennyi Istoricheskii Muzei — the old Synodal Library, now abbreviated GIM), Muz. n° 3240 Inv. No. 49367. Discovery of the autograph manuscript in GIM was made by B. L. Fonkich, who kindly informed me of the material. Item n° 57 of the «Conspectus» also refers to the translation of Tὸ Ψαλτήριον, not otherwise included in the Leipzig, 1804, and Moscow, 1824, translations from St. Augustine. For publication record of Tὸ Ψαλτήριον, see Γκίνης - Μέξας, op. cit., n° 1286 (Bucharest, 1820).

- 58.....The letterbooks to which Voulgaris refers appear to be without current identifiable location. One Voulgaris letterbook located in EBe, n° 2952 («Εὐγενίου Βουλγάρεως. Ἐπιστολαι πρὸς διαφόρους». 300 pp.), includes 90 letters largely from the period prior to Voulgaris' Russian career. However, the EBe manuscript contains letters only in Greek, thereby raising doubt as to whether the manuscript fits Voulgaris' description as provided in this list.
- 59.....Γκίνης - Μέξας, n° 49 (Vienna, 1801) and n° 7442 (Jerusalem, 1858). Bolkhovitinov cites a Russian translation entitled, «Razmyshlenie na piat' knig moiseia». I have been unable to verify such a Russian edition. There was, however, an edition of this work published in five volumes in Jassy, 1815-1819, in the cyrillic script. Translator of the Jassy edition is given as «S.B.M.M.» (Veniamin, Metropolitan of Moldavia). For further information on the Jassy edition, see Ioan Bianu, et. al., Bibliografia româneasca veche, 1508-1830 (Bucharest, 1912-1936), Vol. III, pp. 113, 315. Parts of this Voulgaris work have been republished on numerous occasions up to the present period.
- 60.....Unpublished. Autograph manuscript location is unknown.
- 61.....Location of autograph manuscript is unknown. Voulgaris' letter to Archbishop Stanislav Sestrentsevich has, however, been published in Russian: «Otvet mitropolitu rimskokatolicheskoi tserkvi Stanislavu Sestrentsevichu na vopros ego, 'Kakim iazykom govorili drevnie sarmaty'?», Vestnik Evropy, 1805, chast' 21, no. 9, pp. 3-23.
