

Historein

Vol 19, No 2 (2021)

From the Greek Revolution of 1821 to the Metapolitefsi: Historiographical Debates in Greece across Two Centuries

Editorial Note

Effi Gazi

doi: 10.12681/historein.26816

Copyright © 2021, Effi Gazi

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-ShareAlike 4.0.

To cite this article:

Gazi, E. (2021). Editorial Note. Historein, 19(2). <https://doi.org/10.12681/historein.26816>

Editorial

Editorial Committee

doi: 10.12681/historein.26816

To cite this article:

Editorial Committee. 2021. "Editorial". Historein 19 (2).
<https://doi.org/10.12681/historein.26816>.

Editorial

This volume is composed of a special section on Greek historiography and a distinct article on the histories of Greece and Uruguay in late 19th century. Four contributions by Vangelis Karamanolakis, Panagiotis Stathis, Christos Triantafyllou and Eleni Kouki trace various paths of Greek historiography in the 19th and the 20th centuries. The articles examine from different angles major themes, including the formation of the identity of the professional historian, the historiography of the Greek Revolution of 1821, the multiple legacies of the prominent politician and prime minister Eleftherios Venizelos and the histories of the “Colonels’ dictatorship”. The final article by Sakis Gekas and Camila Acosta addresses a different theme. By contrasting the impact of British informal empire on Greece and Uruguay, the article examines their integration into the globalizing economy of the late 19th century.

Editorial Committee